

A Warrior Must Cross the Bridge

“A warrior must cross the bridge to “Hell on Earth” to apply his trade and he must be totally focused on the task at hand. The time for small talk, well wishes, handshakes, goodbyes and tears comes to an end and the world erupts. Amongst the turmoil and chaos that makes the battlefield a madhouse, a warrior’s chore is as clearly defined and uncomplicated as it can possibly be. Kill the enemy or be killed. In the arena it is an eye for an eye, meat on meat and stink on stink.”

SSG Loyd Cates